

I am sending this letter to express my concern over the FCC's attempt to "over" regulate pay radio. I cannot understand the need the FCC feels to place governmental intrusion into an arena that is paid for by the customers and regulated by the market of the consumer. I always thought that was the Republican government's main theme was less intrusion into the daily lives of our citizens. It is not like public radio where there is no control over what the listening audience is subjected to, such as the argument used to restrict adult theme shows such as Howard Stern. On XM radio, the customer pays for what he or she wants to hear, subject to only their personal taste. Now the government thru the FCC wishes to intrude on that. Is there nothing a citizen can do anymore without the regulation of the federal government. Please leave our pay satellite radio alone. Let the consumer determine what is worthwhile such as Local Traffic and weather by their subscription decisions. Feel free to regulate public or free radio.

Respectfully,

Concerned citizen
